

CONTRIBUTORS

Fiona Burtt
15 Meadow Way
Heston
Middlesex TW5 9EY

J.D. Hill
Darwin College
Cambridge

Jonathan Kissock
Dept. of English Local History
University of Leicester
University Road
Leicester LE1 7RH

Richard Reece
Institute of Archaeology
Gordon Square
London

Kathy Emmott
39 Northcote Road
Portsmouth
Southampton

Nigel Holman
St. Catharine's College
Cambridge
CB2 1RL

Kate Pretty
New Hall
Cambridge

ARCHAEOLOGICAL REVIEW FROM CAMBRIDGE

Volume 6	Number 2	Autumn 1987
ISSUE THEME: ARCHAEOLOGY AS EDUCATION
Theme Editorial by Nigel Holman and Fiona Burtt	110
Kate Pretty Archaeological education for everybody	115
Jonathan Kissock Archaeology and its place in the primary school curriculum	..	119
Kathy Emmott A child's eye view of the past	129
J.D. Hill Confessions of an archaeologist who dug in school: or, is archaeology in schools a good or desirable thing?	143
Fiona Burtt "Man the Hunter": bias in children's archaeology books	..	157
Richard Reece Teaching archaeology as perpetual revolution	175
Nigel Holman Archaeology and education in Ironbridge Gorge: a bridge with the past?	181
GENERAL PERSPECTIVES
Peter Stone Out of the ashes...the Mainz Congress and the World Archaeological Congress	194
Claudia Albertson German acceptance of a world problem	213
COMMENTARY
Ian Batty and Tim Yates Representing (dis)unity: Southampton, Cambridge and beyond	..	220
Andrew Lawson What shall we dig and who will pay?	222
Matthew H. Johnson A visit to Ravenna	225
Frederick Baker and J.D. Hill The museum of an Iron Age	227
BOOK REVIEWS
Christopher Hitchens: The Elgin Marbles Reviewed by Anthony Snodgrass	230
Tom Williamson and Liz Bellamy: Property and Landscape Maurice Howard: The Early Tudor Country House Reviewed by Matthew H. Johnson	232
Mark Patton: Jersey in Prehistory Reviewed by Ian Kinnes	235
Jo Blatti (ed.): Past Meets Present Reviewed by Nigel Holman	237
G. de G. Sieveking and M.H. Newcomer: The Human Uses of Flint and Chert Reviewed by Andy Brown	239
J. Street Jensen (ed.): Christian Jürgensen und Ludwig Lindenschmidt Reviewed by John Moss-Eccardt	241