

Centre for Research in the Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities

The Last Words:

documenting endangered languages
of the Andaman Islands

CRASSH, 17 Mill Lane, Cambridge 5pm, Thursday 1 December 2011

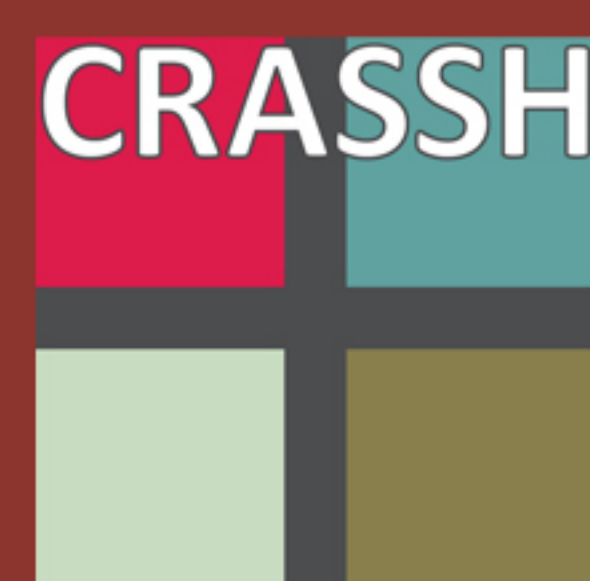

Professor Anvita Abbi

*Leverhulme Visiting Professorship at SOAS;
Professor of Linguistics, Jawaharlal Nehru University*

In this lecture, Professor Abbi will discuss her recent documentation of some of the highly endangered languages of the Andaman Islands, namely Jarawa, Onge and Great Andamanese, illustrated with examples of rare original sound and video recordings.

World Oral Literature Project
voices of vanishing worlds

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

For more information, please visit: www.crassh.cam.ac.uk/events/1818